When Anne and I Are Forty-two

"Pooh!"
 "Yes?" said Pooh.
 "What?" — "Who?" — "Pooh!"
 "For Christopher Robin?"
 "For me?"
 "Nothing anyone."
 "Never again?"
 "Well, not so much. They don't let you."

“You wanted to talk to me?”

“No, but I was silent.”

“Pooh, when I’m — you know —

When I’m not doing

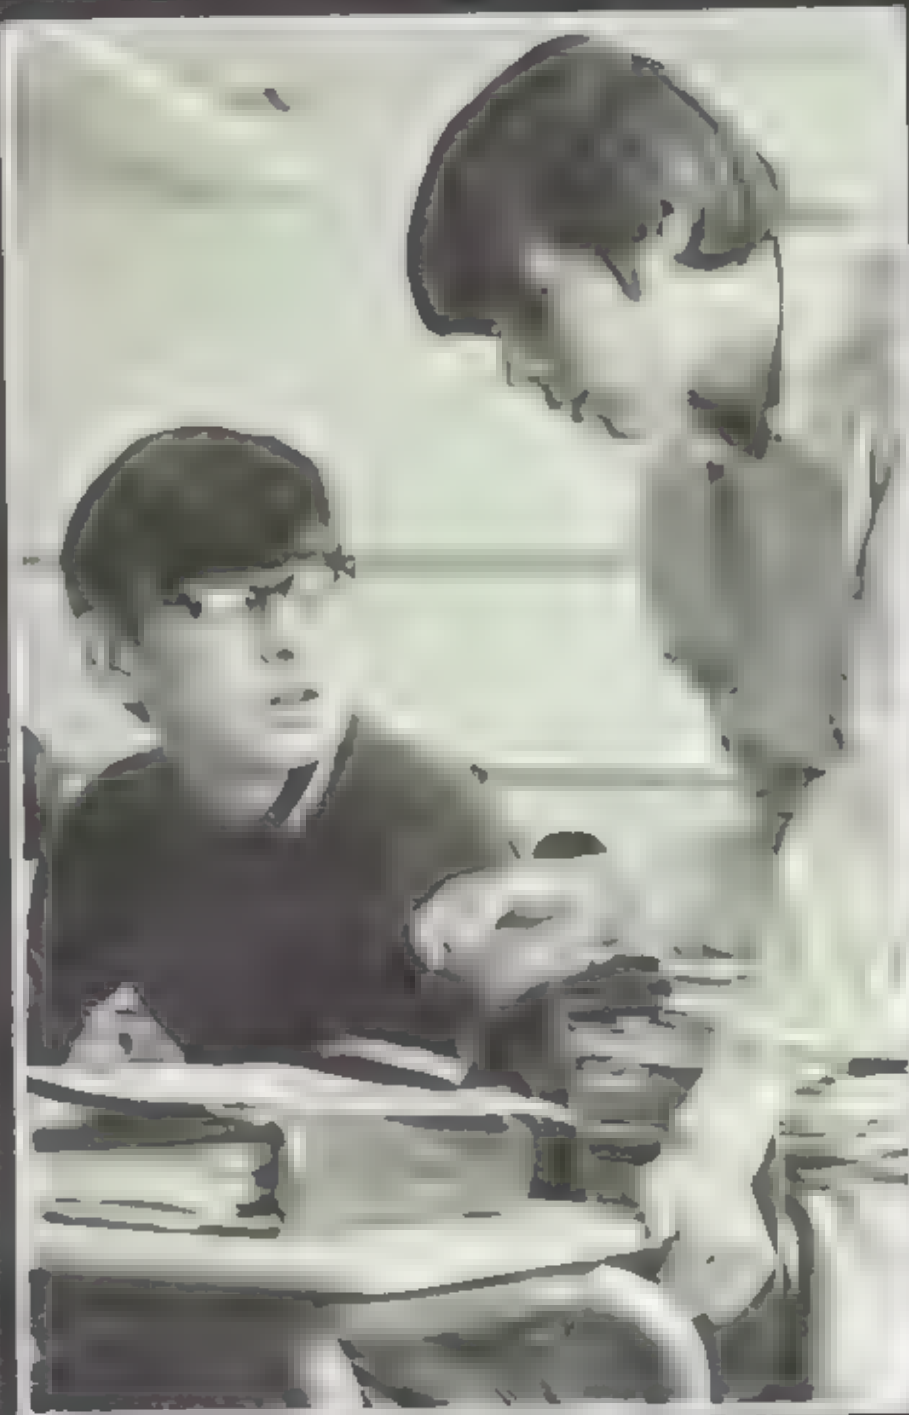

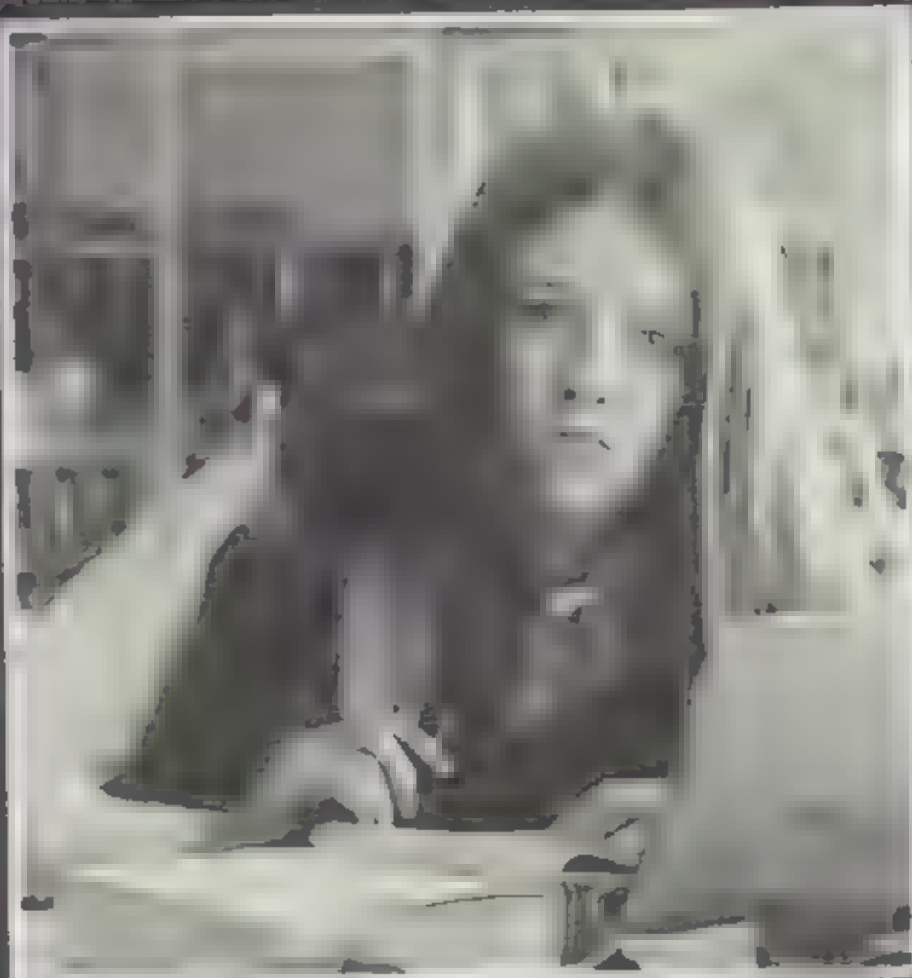

Nothing, will you sit at

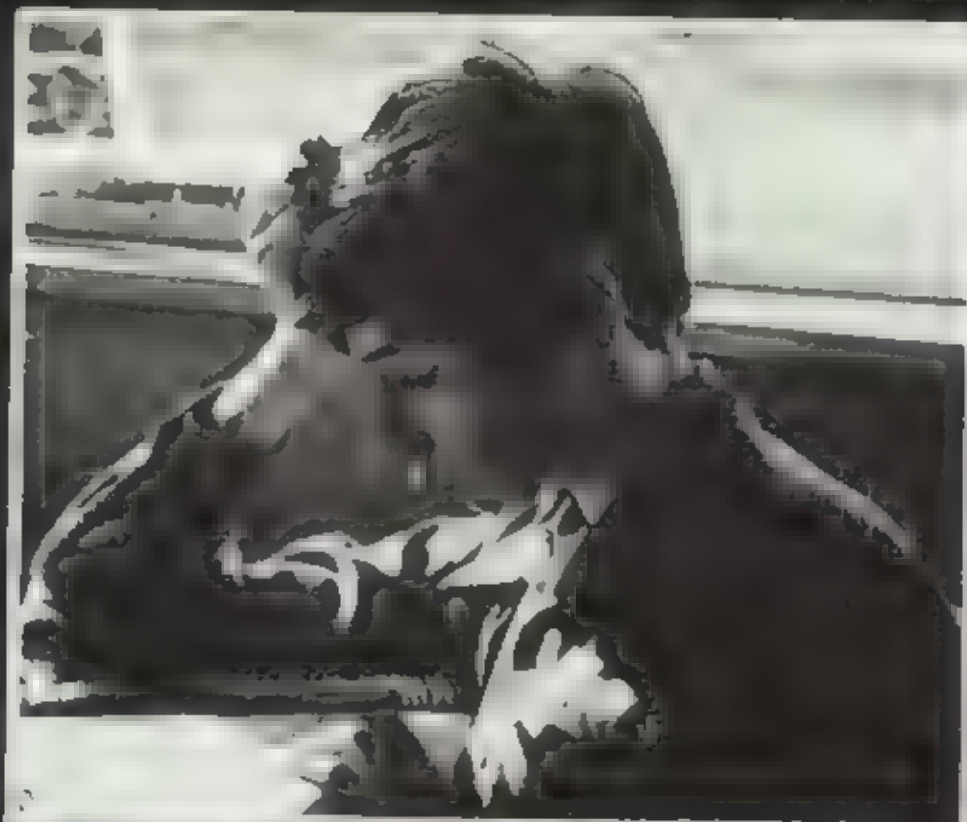

Here to see me sometimes?”

“Just me?”

“Yes, Pooh.”

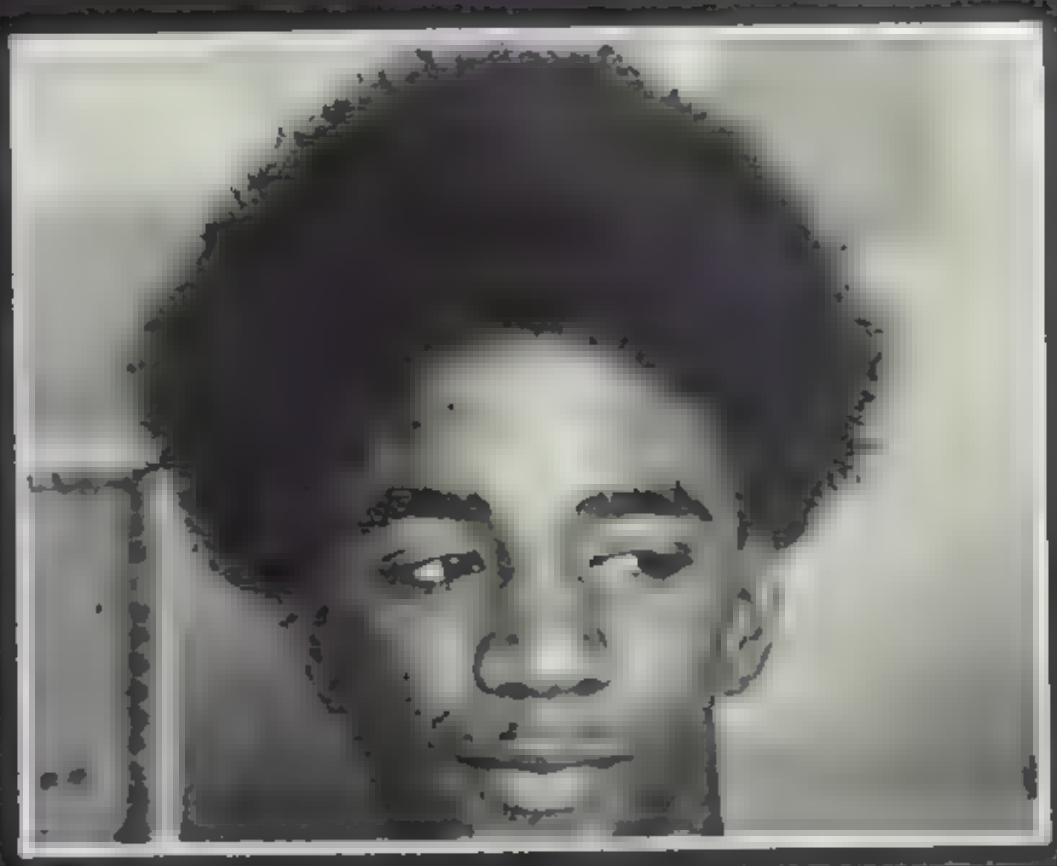

“Will you be here?”

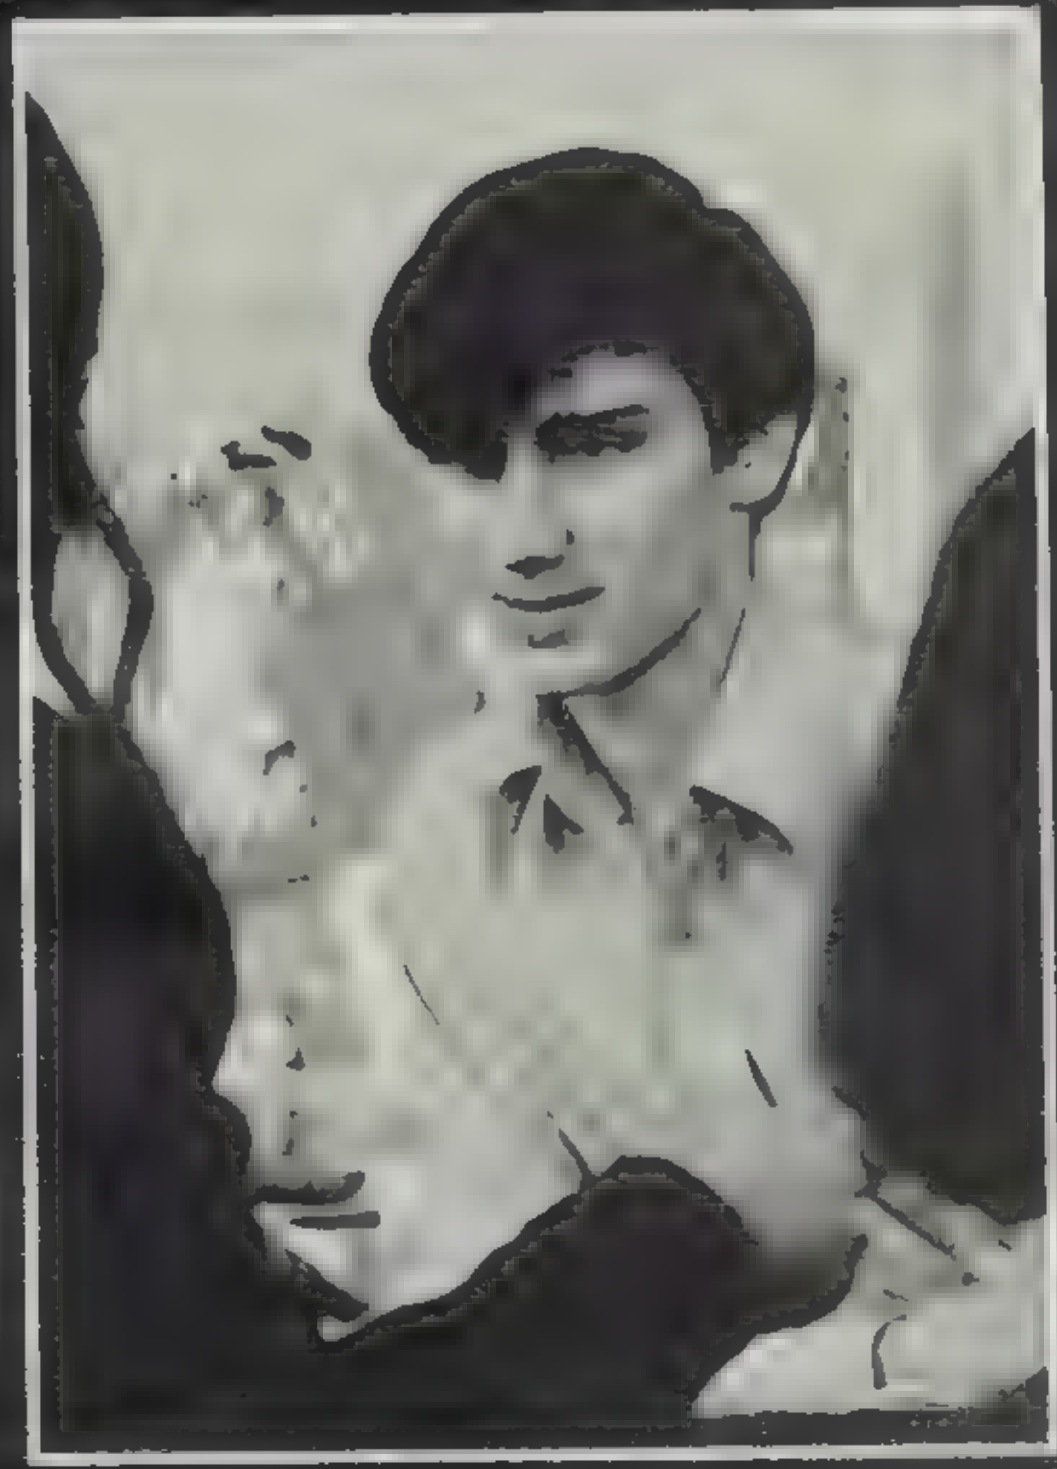

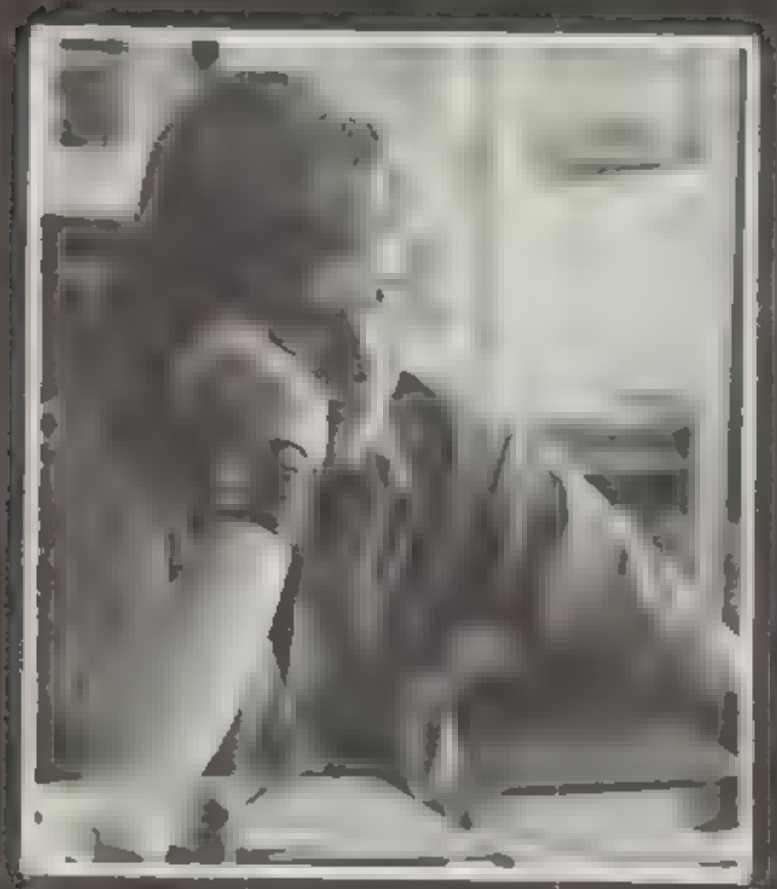

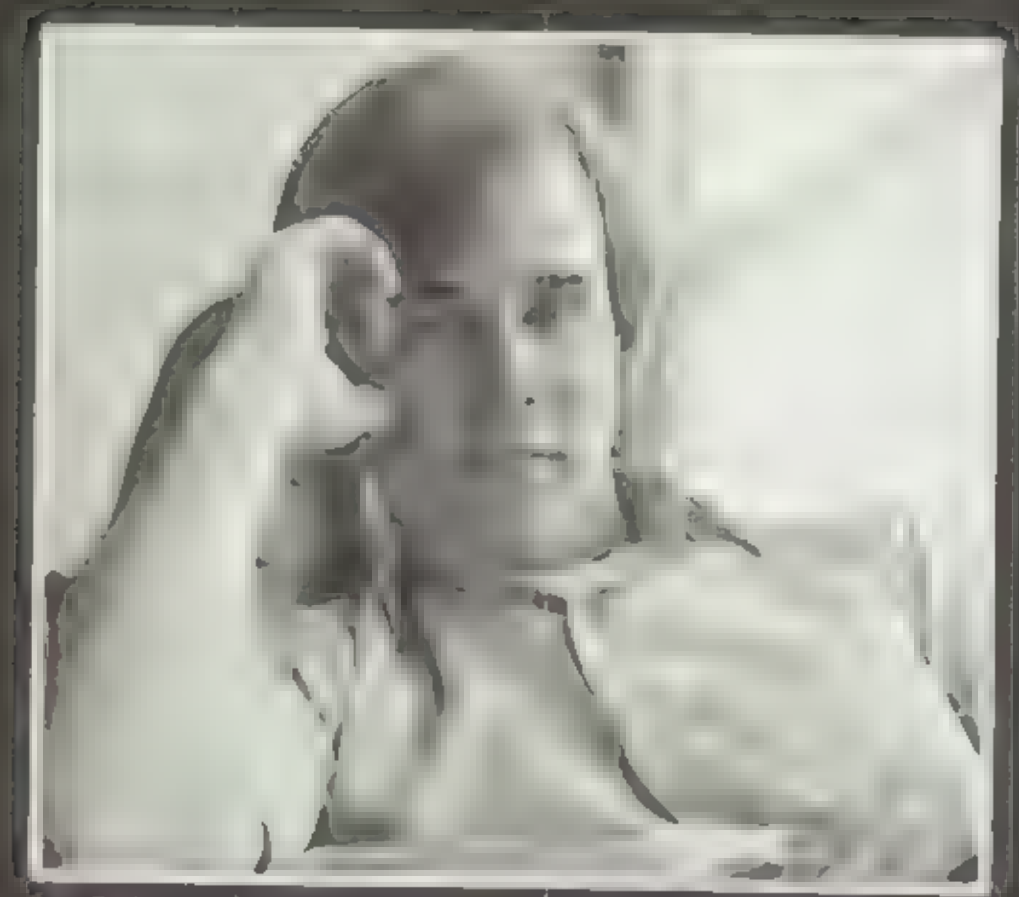

"Yes Pooh, I will be, really.
I promise I will be, Pooh."
That's good, said Pooh.
Pooh, promise you won't forget about me, ever. Not even when I'm a hundred.

Pook thought for a little.
How old shall I be then?
ninety-nine.
Pook nodded.
I promise,
he said.

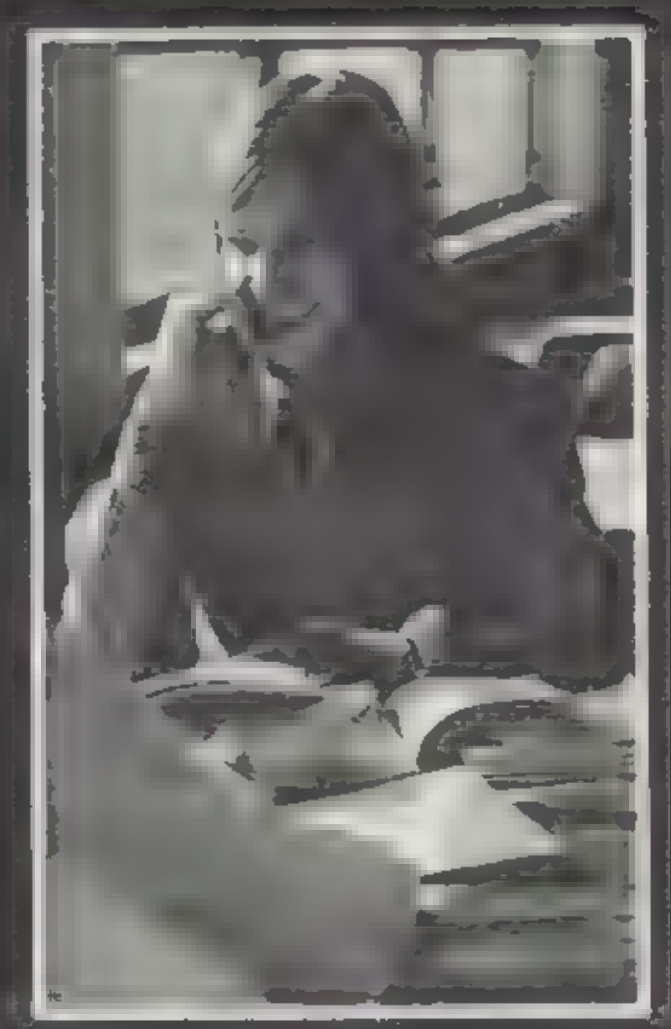

"Understand what?"

"Oh, nothing. He said
and jumped to his feet

"Come on."

"Where?" said Pooh.

"Anywhen," said Christopher Robin.

Education must still use the same words, "basic" and "needs," but simple words whose collective meaning is more powerful than the hydrogen bomb. Which bring to a conclusion Chapter 12 of Butler's book, Future Shock.

In meditating about what I might write, my eye was drawn to the end of this book and to reading the author's message. I was haunted by the words on the cover. This book can help us survive our world and tomorrow.

Putting together the quotations in the first two paragraphs, I can now paraphrase a combination of them with this sentence: "The Class of 1972. To prepare yourselves for what we call 'Future Shock' emotionally." In the world of the 21st Century, each one of us is continuing to prepare an educational program which will enable us to use the tremendous energy of that collision with the 21st Century when you leave the halls of Exeter High School.

For some of you, this will mean an additional four years of education. For others, it should mean a less formal, but more intensive, ongoing pursuit of knowledge and skills enabling you to survive in a new and life-style which only in the thick mist haze of the economic, economic, and technical. Whatever else you mean to do, I am certain of this: I am certain my generation, that which has lived for 50 years, is looking to each one of you to come up with a solution to the problems which are rapidly taking civilization on a head-on collision path with future annihilation.

What is the Class of 1972 going to do about eliminating the means of settling international disputes? How will you prevent our future society from choking itself or poisoning itself by the polluted air we breathe and the infected water we drink? What sacrifices are each of you willing to make to help stabilize the burgeoning population statistics and protect your children and my grandchildren enough square footage of Mother Earth to afford a reasonable standard of living? Perhaps most important of all, what sacrifices will you take in building bridges of understanding and love between your fellow humans whose religions and personalities are different from yours?

I am certain that the possession of an Exeter High School diploma does not qualify you to begin to solve these seemingly insurmountable problems. In fact, I confess that I must agree with the writer of Future Shock when he says that our schools have had and need a dying system which can no longer be the emerging new society. But, for all the other kind of education, I feel that the best advice I can give to the Class of 1972 is to take a long, hard, life-long education, realizing that if any single member of your class does come learning to prepare himself for tomorrow, then every other member of your class is going to prepare for his tomorrow, going forward with geometrically increasing speed toward the rendezvous with the future.

In his short volume, The Outline of History, H.G. Wells wrote that "human history becomes more and more a race between the forces of catastrophe." Mr. Wells wrote those words in 1920, the year that I was high school principal. The nature of this message, that I have heard fifty years ago, is a world which could become a more peaceful, more secure, more unleashed power of the atom and the forces of the future. The world is now in our hands, how much more of a world is it now?

What is 1972? Your hold in your hands not only a diploma, but a large gift: your faculty and loved ones place in your charge a great mission. That challenge to this day has been boldly met by the Class of 1972 with the great education you have provided. Determined to grow into the future and bring you into the brilliance of the glorious tomorrow, I will leave you, mature you to the dawn of the 21st Century.

Good-bye, and God bless each one of you.

Sincerely

Claude W. Dundore

Seniors Innovate New Graduation Procedures

A student plays a drum with 'EXETER HIGH SCHOOL' and 'PEPPERIES' written on it during the graduation ceremony.

Who Are We Now? asks Carol Hughes at the graduation class.

How Do We Know? Says Penny Kline at the graduation class.

Penny Kline wonders: Is Education A Compulsory We All Should?

Junior Carmen Marsh marshals the incoming seniors to their places on stage.

The very personal "Where Do We Get From Here?" is asked by Donna Genger.

Jo,

To a really nice underclassman
I met in sports. Last year wasn't too good because there were some problems, but ~~if~~ ^{maybe} let's forget them and have a great year this year. Remember all the fun we had in hockey, basketball, softball, and Y-Teens. Too bad we couldn't get more championships Maybe this year. Good Luck in the Future in whatever you attempt.

Keep the Peace
and
The Faith

of 30 a really good friend who
likes to go shopping alot.
the dumb things we did
could fill a million pages
but, funny, I can't find the words to fill one. I wish you were much suck in hockey & I'm gonna run you to DEATH! That's the way to become a gold medalist. I really hope our campers dramas come true. But I know they won't, they getting false already! But I sort of don't mind. Lots better things are going to happen this year - just wait!
never forget "Esh!" at the basketball games. Also, the guys at Acme. She Boy Camp. I really can't think of much more to say, trying to fill this page is a fairly hard task you know. So as my writing gets larger & my thoughts get sillier, I must say this is nerve-wracking while I must say over my shoulder while I write. Lots of luck in all your old especially sports, I know you will make a good name for yourself in hockey, Basketball & Football. So bye for now, Fred 65
